PEARSON
Welcome to the Fifth International Conference on Language Immersion Education 2014: Mainstream Access to Multilingual Communities. We are delighted to be hosting this meeting with the Utah State Office of Education, and to welcome all of you to Salt Lake City. We have put together an exciting conference program with a broad range of workshops, plenary sessions, symposia and panel presentations. We look forward to seeing all of you over the next few days and hope that you will join us for a reception generously sponsored by PEARSON, on Friday evening from 5:00 to 6:30 pm in the Garden Courtyard.

The University of Utah’s Second Language Teaching and Research Center (L2TReC) is housed in the College of Humanities under the joint direction of Professors Jane Hacking and Fernando Rubio. It is a hub for researchers from across campus and the larger community whose work shares a second language acquisition and/or L2 pedagogy focus. The Center hosts events and workshops on SLA research, curriculum development and assessment, and is a resource for the university and the community on foreign language education. It also plays a prominent role in supporting the state-wide, legislatively funded Dual Language Immersion programs in Utah, by promoting immersion research, educating pre- and in-service teachers, and assisting with immersion curriculum development.

L2TReC holds a Language Training Center grant, which provides federal funding to run intensive advanced language classes for military personnel along the Wasatch Front. L2TReC is also one of three awardees nationally of a Language Flagship Proficiency Initiative Grant designed to normalize and institutionalize sustainable language proficiency assessment practices.
In 2008, the Utah Senate passed the International Initiatives (Senate Bill 41) sponsored by State Senator Howard Stephenson, creating funding for Utah schools to begin Dual Language Immersion programs in Chinese, French, and Spanish. In addition, then-Governor Jon Huntsman Jr. initiated the Governor’s Language Summit and the Governor’s World Language Council, both with a goal to create a K-12 language roadmap for Utah. These groups aimed to address the needs for language skills in business, government, and education. In 2010, current Governor Gary Herbert issued a challenge to Utah educators to implement one hundred Dual Language Immersion programs throughout Utah by 2015, with a goal of enrolling 25,000 Utah students. Due to the early success of the program and public demand the goal was achieved in 2014. Governor Hebert and the State Legislature have now set the continuing goal of mainstream Dual Language Immersion programs throughout the Utah public school system. Portuguese was added to the program in 2012, German was added to the program in 2014, and additional languages will be added in the future.

The Utah Dual Language Immersion Program uses a fifty-fifty model, in which students spend half of their school day in the target language and the other half-day in English. All state-sponsored schools with Dual Language Immersion programs are required to implement the fifty-fifty model and use two teachers, one who instructs exclusively in the target language for half of the day and a second who teaches in English for the remainder of the day.
From kindergarten through third grade, the target language curriculum includes literacy study and the majority of the content subjects (math, science, and social studies). The English curriculum focuses on English language arts and some collaborative reinforcement of the content. Teamwork is essential! The curriculum shifts in the fourth and fifth grades, as most conceptual instruction in math, social studies and science is taught in English. Practical application of these subjects remains in the target language. In the sixth grade, social studies shifts back to the target language and science shifts to English instruction. These curriculum changes in the upper grades purposefully allow for more instruction time in the target language, focusing on literacy study and increasing student proficiencies. Specific proficiency goals for every Dual Language Immersion language are set at each grade level in all areas: reading, writing, speaking, and listening.

The Utah Dual Language Immersion Program then offers one course in grades seven through nine, and additional outside the classroom opportunities. Participating students are expected to enroll in Advanced Placement language coursework and complete the AP exam in the ninth grade. In grades ten through twelve, students will be offered 3000 university-level coursework through blended learning with six major Utah universities. Students are also encouraged to begin study of a third language in high school. Through this articulated K-12 Utah language roadmap, the state’s students will enter universities or the global workforce equipped with truly valuable language and cultural skills at the Advanced Level of proficiency in all four skill areas (reading, writing, speaking and listening).
Siv Björklund is Professor in Swedish immersion at the Centre for Immersion and Multilingualism at the University of Vaasa, Finland. She was a member of the pioneer research team evaluating the first two Swedish immersion classes in Finland in the late 1980s and has been involved in teacher preparation and professional development for immersion since the 1990s. For over 25 years, she has worked with second and multiple language acquisition and immersion teaching focused on successful integration of content and language learning. Currently, her main research interest includes multiple language acquisition and dynamics of identity construction among immersion students. She has published extensively on both national and international level and is founding co-editor of Journal of Immersion and Content-Based Language Education (first issue published in spring 2013).

Dr. Cristina Banfi holds Ph.D. in Linguistics, University College London and is currently Director of Foreign Languages at the Ministry of Education of the City of Buenos Aires and teacher trainer at various institutions. She has published papers in the English Language Journal, the International Journal of Bilingualism and Bilingual Education and in other refereed and non-refereed publications. She has published two books on language education and edited several conference proceedings. She has been a member of academic panels for conferences, teacher reviews and postgraduate dissertations. She is a member of the European Union COST Action “Unraveling the grammars of European sign languages: pathways to full citizenship of deaf signers and to the protection of their linguistic heritage.”
Fred Genesee is Professor Emeritus in the Psychology Department, McGill University, Montreal. He has conducted extensive research on alternative forms of bilingual and immersion education for language minority and language majority students. His current research interests include language acquisition in pre-school bilingual children, internationally-adopted children, second language reading acquisition, and the language and academic development of students at-risk in bilingual programs. He is the recipient of the Canadian Psychological Associate Award for Distinguished Contributions to Community or Public Service, Canadian Psychology Association Gold Medal Lifetime Achievement Award for 2014, and the 2-Way CABE Award of Promoting Bilingualism.

Mike Bostwick serves as Director of the English Immersion / Bilingual Program (K-12) at Katoh Gakuen, Japan and has directed the development of the program from its beginning in 1992. The school was the first English immersion school in Japan and in 2000 it became the first Japanese school to receive authorization from the International Baccalaureate Organization. Mike has taught at almost every level (K - college) in both the USA and Japan and is also currently an adjunct professor in the TESOL masters & doctorate programs at Temple University, Japan.

Tara Fortune earned her Ph.D. at the University of Minnesota in Curriculum and Instruction with a focus on dual language immersion education. Since 2002, she has served as director of the Immersion Research and Professional Development Projects at the Center for Advanced Research on Language Acquisition (CARLA), University of Minnesota. In partnership with practitioners and leading immersion researchers, Tara devotes most of her professional time to the preparation and continuing education of language immersion educators throughout the U.S. and abroad. Dr. Fortune’s publications include; “What the Research Says about Immersion,” a chapter in Chinese Language Learning in the Early Grades (2012, Asia Society), a co-edited volume on immersion research, Immersion Education: Practices, Policies, Possibilities (2011, Multilingual Matters), and Struggling Learners & Language Immersion Education (2010, University of Minnesota). Tara also serves on the editorial board of the Journal of Immersion and Content-Based Language Education (John Benjamins) and as a graduate faculty in Curriculum and Instruction the College of Education and Human Development at the University of Minnesota.
Kathryn Lindholm-Leary is professor emerita of Child and Adolescent Development at San Jose State University, where she has taught for 25 years. At San Jose State, Kathryn received a Teacher-Scholar award, was a finalist for the President’s Scholar award, and was a San Jose State nominee for the prestigious Wang Family Excellence award. She has worked with over 75 two-way and developmental bilingual programs over the past 30 years and has written books and journal articles, and given presentations to researchers, educators, and parents on the topics of dual language education and child bilingualism.

Dr. Peeter Mehisto has worked internationally with a wide variety of stakeholders to develop and manage bilingual and trilingual programmes. Generating planning documents, building teacher-training programmes, managing public relations and creating learning materials have been integral to these initiatives. He also has extensive experience working with teachers in the classroom to support the implementation of best practice in bilingual programmes. He has won several awards for his work. He has taught at the primary, secondary and university levels. He is the lead author of the awarding-winning book Uncovering CLIL (Macmillan). More recently he has written Excellence is Bilingual Education: A guide for school principals (Cambridge University Press). His latest book, which is under development for Cambridge, is called Building Bilingual Education Systems.

Roy Lyster is Professor of Second Language Education in the Department of Integrated Studies Education at McGill University in Canada. He has a PhD in Applied Linguistics as well as a B.Ed. and M.Ed. from the University of Toronto, and an MA from the Université de Paris VII. His research examines content-based second language instruction and the effects of instructional interventions—such as teacher scaffolding and corrective feedback—designed to counterbalance form-focused and content-based approaches. His research interests also include professional development and teacher collaboration among language teachers for integrated language learning and biliteracy development. He is author of Learning and Teaching Languages Through Content: A Counterbalanced Approach, published by Benjamins in 2007.
In her career as an educator, Myriam (Mimi) Met has been a foreign language teacher, district supervisor, and acting director of the National Foreign Language Center at the University of Maryland. She is currently an independent consultant, working with schools, districts, state offices, universities and private agencies on strategic planning and support for immersion programs. She has worked with over 100 immersion programs in and beyond the US, in addition to over those in the state of Utah.

Rosa G. Molina is her fourth year as the Executive Director of the Association of Two-Way & Dual Language Education (ATDLE). She took this role upon her retirement as a 35 years K-12 educator who has had extensive experience as a teacher, school and district administration, professional developer, and nationally known speaker and author. After extensive experience in leading one of the first Two-Way Bilingual Immersion programs in California, Molina and the River Glen School team was awarded a National Academic Excellence grant to disseminate the program model throughout the United States. In this role, she helped co-found the first technical support organization in the U.S. for Two Way teachers. Rosa has also been the lead organizer of the annual National Two-Way Bilingual Immersion Conference which is now in its 23rd year. In her current role as executive director of a new non-profit, ATDLE, she is working with schools, districts and programs throughout the United States providing technical assistance and professional training for Two-Way and Dual Language teachers, administrators and programs and advocating for the continued development of new programs!

Howard Stephenson was first elected to the Utah State Senate in 1992. He represents Senate District 11, which covers portions of Salt Lake and Utah counties. Senator Stephenson currently serves as Senate Chair of the Public Education Appropriations Subcommittee and Senate Chair of the Administrative Rules Review Committee. He also serves on the Senate Education Standing Committee, Higher Education Appropriations Subcommittee, Senate Revenue and Taxation Standing Committee, the Education Task Force, and the Governor’s Excellence in Education Commission. Nationally, he chairs the Digital Learning Subcommittee of the American Legislative Exchange Council, and serves as a Commissioner on Education Commission of the States. Senator Stephenson’s legislation have resulted in Utah leading the nation in the number and percentage of students involved in Dual Language Immersion including Chinese language and culture, and the percentage of students involved in daily personalized learning through adaptive computer assisted instruction. He leads the way in removing taxes on capital equipment purchases by Utah manufacturers and mining operations, making Utah more competitive internationally.

SYMPOSIUM DETAILS

SYMPOSIUM 1
Border Crossing: Immersion Teacher Educators Share Successes and Challenges

This symposium showcases an international roster of immersion teacher educators representing a range of immersion models – one-way French immersion (Canada), one-way Swedish immersion (Finland), two-way immersion (U.S.), and immersion for language and culture revitalization of a minority autochthonous language (Welsh) and an indigenous language (Hawaiian). Presenters will share examples of immersion-specific preservice teacher preparation and/or inservice professional development practices in their respective contexts and identify successes as well as persistent challenges.

SPEAKERS:

SYMPOSIUM 5
State of the States

This symposium brings together state-level leaders from the U.S. to report on the growth of dual language immersion education in their respective states and describe the policy and advocacy initiatives that have supported this growth. Presenters will consider state-level policies, as well as those at local and national levels that support or discourage a positive policy climate for immersion education. Attendees will be invited to discuss their experiences with policy and advocacy environments with the panel members.

SYMPOSIUM 6
Cross-Cultural Competence: Intercultural Identity and Community

This symposium examines the use of cross-cultural pedagogy and intercultural perspectives in the dual immersion classroom. The symposium will address strategies for teaching and assessing cross-cultural competence in K-12 settings. Specific topics will include curricular innovations for teaching culture through language; teaching strategies that place the cultures of the students and teacher in dialogue with the culture of the target language; using the dual immersion classroom as a resource for promoting cross cultural dialogue in the community; and measuring the effectiveness of cultural curriculum.

Sixth International Conference on Language Immersion Education

October 20–22, 2016
Minneapolis, MN

Language immersion education continues to evolve as a highly effective program model for launching students on the road to bi- and multilingualism and intercultural competence. School-based immersion programs commit to a minimum of 50% subject-matter schooling through a second, world, heritage, or indigenous language at the preschool and elementary levels with varying amounts of subject-based language learning support throughout secondary and post-secondary education. Program models include:

- One-way world language immersion
- Two-way bilingual immersion
- Indigenous/heritage immersion for language and culture revitalization

While each model targets distinct sociocultural contexts and educational needs, all embrace language, literacy and culture development through subject matter learning.

Under the leadership of co-chairs Diane Tedick and Roy Lyster, and the Center for Advanced Research on Language Acquisition, University of Minnesota (CARLA), the sixth international conference on immersion education will bring these models together to engage in research-informed dialogue and professional exchange across languages, levels, learner audiences, and sociopolitical contexts.
